

The Sea Ray Boat Club of Northern California

PRIVACY POLICY

The SRBCNC web site at www.srbnc.org does not collect, with any intent to redistribute or sell, private information on any visitors to our web site, photo gallery, message boards, or other online area. However, please note the following:

When you register for an account at the SRBCNC web site or one of its components, you are required to provide a valid email address which is used to validate your membership and activate your account. This email address, along with your IP address, is recorded in our database and is visible only to the webmaster. With each visit, page view, photo upload and forum post, your IP address is recorded in one or more of our databases and server logs. This information is visible only to the webmaster, and will only be used to monitor and analyze traffic to/from our web site and the load on our server.

Our software places a cookie (a small text file containing bits of information such as your username and password) in your browser's cache. This is ONLY used to keep you logged in and allow you to view or participate in areas of our site that are not otherwise accessible. Our software does not collect or send any other form of information to your computer.

One exception to the above is the subset of our club roster that contains a limited amount of members' information; This information will not be posted on our web site without your prior approval (an opt-in policy) and, in any event, will only be accessible to bona fide SRBCNC members who have logged into the Members Only area of the web site.

Questions concerning this policy may be addressed to the Commodore &/or the webmaster of the Sea Ray Boat Club of Northern California; Contact information is available on our web site at www.srbnc.org.
